Nonlinear ARX identification

The project involves creating a black-box model for an unknown dynamic system using a nonlinear polynomial ARX model. The system has one input and one output, with dynamics of order three or lower. The goal is to develop the model using provided datasets for training and validate it with a separate dataset. Data is stored in MATLAB files, and ARX identification techniques are applied to achieve an effective model for the dynamic system.